

Ethics Paper 2

PHILOSOPHERS IN A MODERN-DAY SETTING

---

Chose a known philosopher and speculate on what type of journalists he would be today. Start with an introduction followed by a short biographical section. Next, explain the philosopher's main principle. Explain how that principle affects the journalism profession. Spend some time thinking about the philosopher and his main principle. Speculate about what type of journalist or job in journalism the philosopher would have if he was a journalist today. Explain your reasoning. Add a conclusion.

This paper should be about five pages long. Double space. Try not to use a font larger than 12 points. The length is not as important as the critical thinking that needs to be done about the philosopher as a journalist. Enjoy the research and wondering.

Attribution should be included in the paper. No need for a works cited page or a bibliography. Avoid Wikipedia as a direct source. You can use it as a starting point.

Possible philosophers:

- Aristotle
- Kant
- Mills
- Rawles
- Jesus
- Lao-tzu
- Siddhārtha Gautama (Gautama Buddha)
- Confucius
- Socrates
- Plato
- De Montaigne
- Milton
- Locke
- Hume
- Voltaire (François-Marie Arouet)
- Kierkegaard
- Epicurus
- Zeno of Citium
- Thomas Aquinas
- Decartes
- Marx
- De Beauvoir
- Rousseau
- Nietzsche
- Arendt
- Wollstonecraft